General Reactionary Tendency in New York.

Foreign Situation Closely Watched. Southern Pacific Strong Feature in Railroads.

NEW YORK, July 26.—Prices drifted to a lower level today, largely through the inertia produced by the recent reactionary tendency. There was no new influence governing the speculation. The continuance of political tension abroad was aggravated somewhat in its effect on sentiment here by the prospect that the seizure of American merchantmen by Russian cruisers might bring this country into the sphere of diplomatic conflicts. The strength of London discounts try into the sphere of diplomatic conflicts. The strength of London discounts created a well defined impression that gold exports might take place. Not-withstanding these adverse influences, withstanding these adverse influences, he no important liquidation was brought about, and as a rule the recessions in prices were less than a point.

Southern Pacific was a strong feature of the railroad list. In the industrial group, movements were a little more interesting than in the railroad department. Reactions generally took place, but as a rule they were fractional. Government bonds unchanged. Other Teomore firm.

NEW YORK COTTON MARKET. NEW YORK July 26.—The market opened barely steady, 2 to 5 points lower. The opening, however, was better than due on the cables from Liverpool, and appeared influenced by good support from the same sources that have been bulling the market for some time-chiefly Wall Street. There was an especially active demand for August, which showed the greatest strength.

ing off yesterday in the volume of transactions was commented upon favorably by those to whom it signified that the tendency of the market was to get dull tendency of the market was to get dull when weak and that stocks were not coming out, and unfavorably by those to whom it signified that the activity was leaving the market after a considerable advance, and that the public had become unresponsive. On the one hand, it is asserted that more stocks than have yet appeared—real stocks instead of contracts—will be needed to put the market down, and on the other, that there will have to be more genuine activity to put it up. The average disposition yesterday was to consider the absence of any real selling pressure the strong point about the market, but that alone was not enough to alter the views of those who have been and are still demanding a good reaction. Among traders and brokers and on the part of the public and the banking interests who talk this demand for a substantial reaction seems to be almost unanimous, and for no other reason there are a few who think that the kind of a reaction that is looked for is likely to be delayed.

Shrewd operators here are watching the Paris Bourse intently, experience having proved that Paris gets trustworthy Russian news in advance of not significance whatever. The prominent buyers of one hour were the prominent sellers in the next. It was so in Amalgamated Copper, United States Steel and even Southern Pacific, although the movement in the stock last named seemed really to have some substance. Commission business was conspicuously light. Most of the big orders both ways appeared to be of professional origin.

The short interest in the market bides. The borrowing demand for stocks reported from the loan department yesterday afternoon was undim ished. Atchison, Pennsylvania and St. Paul were the stocks most in demand, and there was also a good inquiry for Union Pacific and Southern Pacific. The demand for Steel preferred was not as pressing as it had been, but renewals were heavy. No stocks, brokers say, are being returned.

SHOT BOY BY MISTAKE.

In a fight between negroes in front of McNeeley's saloon, in the northeastern section of the city, last night, Armstead Harris, a little negro boy, who was a bystander, was shot in the leg. He was taken to his home and medical assistance summoned. In the police court this morning, Pierce Lockwood, a negro, was sent on to the grand jury, upon the charge of shooting the Harris boy. From the evidence in court this morning it appears that Lockwood was shooting at a negro named Jeff Mackey, but hit Harris by mistake.

the roads in California with great suc-cess, and he is of the opinion that it will afford the same satisfaction in the East.

About $1,000 will be expended in the experiment, and the first road treated will be New York Avenue, beyond Twentieth Street northwest. After that, some of the roads in the horthwest suburbs will be given the same treatment,

Method of Application.

The manner of applying the oil is to arrow the road so that the surface s well loosened. The oil is then poured on, and the harrow is again run over t, so as to mix well the oil and the dirt r the oil and the sand. The road is en immediately thrown open to traffic, nd no more work has to be done on The wheels of vehicles soon pack down, and the result is a hard, smooth surface, without dust and without holes. The only point of doubt now in Mr. Dow's mind is the way in which the oil will have to be handled before being pplied to the surface of the roads. The pplied to the surface of the roads. The California oil, he points out, has an assimaltic base, while the Eastern oils are without this property. This will be emedded by mixing asphalt with the dis used in the experiment. The thing o be determined is just how much assimalt will be required for the mixture with the oil.

Range of Experiments.

Oils containing different percentages f asphalt mixture will be applied to he roads on which the experiments are o be made, and it is thought that the irst series of experiments will demonstrate exactly the serviceable mixture

The great advantage of the system ay the District officials, is its cheapess, the only real expense being the of work is inexpensive. The process is his way, will last for years. They will hed the winter snows, the surface ormed by the asphaltic oils being impervious to cold or water.

It is claimed by high authorities or the subject that "there is no such thing as dust from an offed road." The authorities claim, therefore, that a road which can be cheaply treated by a method that keeps off dust and mid absolutely will be _ great improvement, and will cause a revolution in Eastern methods of working roads. nd will cause a revolution nethods of working roads.

marketmaster of Georgetown for many years, would be compelled by Mr. Haskeli to resign his position, the theory naving been advanced that Mr. Williams was no longer fitted to the position which he holds, at a salary of $75 per month.

The Rumor Denied.

The rumor was denied positively by reporter. He said he had as yet expressed no determination to expel Mr. Williams, but had told him that complaints against him had been made to the ofagainst him had been made to the office by several Georgetown people within the last few months. He gave Mr.
Williams this warning, he said, so that he might know what was being said, and might have an opportunity to present his side of the case if occasion for such a thing should arise.

At present however, there is absolutely no proof that the loss of money by the market is traceable to Williams.
It may be, as Mr. Haskell pointed out, that business for some reason has decreased there to such an extent that the stail rentals, the only source of revenue from the market, are becoming less and less remunerative.

Expenses at Market.

Expenses at Market.

The expenses to which the District is put in order to keep the market going are Mr. Williams' salary and the pay-ment of gas bills and having repairs made to the market building. It will be remembered that some years ago an order of the District Commissioners drove from the space on M Street the farmers with their wagons. This produced great dissatisfaction, both among the farmers and the patrons of the the farmers and the patrons of the market.

When Mr. Haskell came into office, the Commissioners approved his recommendation that the farmers be allowed four feet of sidewalk space on which to sell their produce. They were given the privilege of letting their horses stand in Potomac Street. This also was unsatisfactory. It is thought that for these reasons the market may be losing its patronage and fewer stalls are rented by salesmen of meat and products, thus reducing the rentals and keeping the place in debt.

Mr. Haskell will soon know what ought to be done in the matter. In the meantime Mr. Williams will keep the place he has held so long.
